

Field Fisher Waterhouse franchise learning curve

How to franchise your business- A proactive participatory experience Thursday 2 April 2009

Venue: Field Fisher Waterhouse LLP, 35 Vine Street, London, EC3N 2AA

An interactive seminar with no set speeches

Join the managing director of a fictional company as he spends the day in a series of interviews with specialist advisors during which he will discover:

- What franchising involves, including the downsides
- Whether it will provide an alternative method of expansion in the domestic market place
- How to franchise his business
- The different models, relevant to different sectors
- What his banker may be able to do to assist both his company and in due course the franchisees
- The role of the British Franchise Association
- The legal issues involved in franchising and running a franchised business

Delegates are encouraged to participate fully throughout with their own questions and concerns so a vast range of issues and a lot of detail is teased out during the course of the day, including issues relevant for their own businesses and planning.

By the end of the day the managing director should know whether franchising is relevant for his business, and how to go about it.

The client: Managing director of a fictional company
Brian Duckett – Managing Director, Howarth Franchising Limited

The banker: Cathryn Hayes, Head of Franchising, HSBC Bank
